The approaches and piers over the Toolumne river are in place. This structure will be a large one and will require three weeks to complete it. By that time Grant Brothers will have completed the twenty miles of grading to the Merced river. It will require about twenty days to lay the track that distance, and a few days additional to complete the bridge over the Merced river.

From Merced to Freano the distance is about fifty miles. No contracts have as yet been made for grading, bridge building of freak helping.

President Clans Spreakels stated to-day that within a very few days all of the rights of way for this distance will be obtained, thus enabling the company to let contracts for building the road into Freeno by July 10th.

HOUSE.

. Washington, March 3.-The house spont the entire day in debating the amendment to the legislative appropria-tion bill to abolish the fee system in the cases of the United States district attorcases of the United States district attorneys and marshals. The salaries fixed by the amendment range from $2000 to $5000. The amendment was indored by almost every member of the judiciary committee. It was argued the amendment would reduce the expenses of the United States courts, which have doubled since 1878, at least $500,000 for the first year, and result in stopping the permicious padding of the business of the federal courts. The debate will be continued temporors under the two-number of the courts.

SILENCE NOT SIGNIFICANT.

"The enthusiastic ellence by which the Republican state central committee defined its position on the Huntington relunding bill at its meeting of Saturday does not come exactly like the blare of the frumpet, but its inful of significance of the position of the men who control the committee.—San Fruncico Examiner.

With due respect for the Examiner which is waging a battle royal against the funding bill, the REPUBLICAN sub-mits that the "enthusiastic silence" of the state central committee is significaut of nothing in particular. It hap-pens that the committee did not assem-ble for the purpose of adopting resolu-tions or formulating a platform. It met ide certain matters relative to the calling of a state convention, did its business, and the members went home. That it did no more than it was summoned to do cannot justly be held to be significant circumstance. Or, if it on other subjects must also be

At the present time an amendment of the tariff is being discussed in congress, and, however one may view the matter, ist admit that its decision is of no slight moment to the people. But the olution arging congress to definite action upon the tariff. Would the Exnemer islaim that this "enthusiastic silence" indicates that the Republican party has grown lukewarm toward the cause of protection? Probably not. But it might as well do this thing as to untend that the other "enthusiastic ellener" was "full of significance."

Probably more than any other one thing the financial question is agilating the country today, and few, if any, questions could have a more direct bearing on the fortunes of the nation. Congress is divided concerning it, and the attitude of congress is that of the people at large. Every good citizen must wisl that it might be settled in one way or another, yet the central committee was silent concerning it. Would the Exam-iner construct his silence as a symptom of indifference? Presumably it would ant. Yet it is difficult to determine why ne silence should be full of signifi-

Cuban question had assumed a phase of nuch interest and the action of this government concerning it was problem-atical. The committee, if it had chosen might have given congress the benefit of its opinion in the matter, but it did not choose to do so. The Examiner would not contend that this "enthusiastic silence" necessarily was indi-cative of feeling for or against the Cubans. But it is hard to say why the one vilence should mean more than the

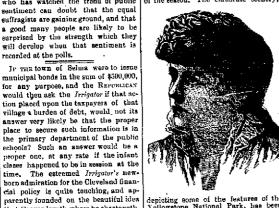

The residents on Corbett avenue in San Francisco have petitioned to have its name changed, for the reason that they do not wish the pullic to suppose the avenue was named after James J. Of course it may be said in response or course it may be sain in response to all this that-the committee's elemen was concerning a subject which is of deepest interest to the people of Californie. Such a reply would be absolutely truttful, but it would not follow that significance necessarily attaches to the silence. The fact is that it was no part of the committee's duties to make itself heard concerning a funding bill. Donbt-less it might have gone out of its way and done so, but it was under no obligaand done so, but it was under no colliga-tion to do it, and, as it was not, its si-lence certainly should not be regarded as "full of significance." Had a state convention been thus silent, the "would have been significance enough in the fact, but the inaction of a central com-mittee is a very different matter. The latter signifies nothing except that the committee attended to its regular business and nothing more. It is not a case where silence gives assent.

It appears that the split in the Salvathem Army is final, and henceforth there

Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are torribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of stat libnesses occur every year unkered in by a little injudicious exponures and seemingly trilling graptoms. Beyond this there are today countees invalids who can trace their completine to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected. The Best is Always by Far the Cheapest.

That old but trite saying that "the best is the cheapest" is true when applied to any line of business. But its importance and force are felt more in the line of drugs and chemicals than in sepect to any other commodity.

The absolute necessity of good, pure, wholesome drugs in cases of sickness is so apparent that no chances should be taken in an attempt to save a few cents on the price of an article.

Our leading drugsists, Buker & Colson, are selling goods as cheaply as they can be bought anywhere, quality and purity considered.

Chairman Eden brought up the matter of appointing a census marsial. The law provides that the selection shall be made by the heard during the month of March. The census must be taken between April 15th and May 1st.

Trustee Monroe wanted to make the selection immediately. He did not wish to be subjected to the button-holing which school trustees must always endure pending the appointment of census marshuis.

Chairman Eden wanted to have the matter off his neads as quickly as possible. Trustee Gallagher staict that he has already had some experience with candidates for the position, and be wanted to have the matter disposed of acquickly as practicable. Trustee Chairman Eden wanted to have the matter disposed of acquickly as practicable. Trustee Chairman pointment of the wanted to have the matter disposed of acquickly as practicable. Lawyer Graham Brings a Test Suit.

INTERPRETATION OF THE LAW

He Thinks That Demurrers and Motions Should Not be Charged For.

An interesting suit has been prepared An interesting atterns over propared for filing in the superiour court by George B. Graham. It is to bring about a judicial interpretation of that part of the fee bill, passed by the last legislature, which relates to the county clerk's The law in nuestion reads as follows:

"On placing any action, excepting a pro-bate proceeding or default of a case, on the calendar for trial or hearing, a fee of $2 shall be paid by the party at whose equest such action or proceeding is

The point of contention is whether The point of contention is whether the county clerk has a right to collect this fee for every denurrer and motion entered on the record. By the advice of District Attorney Snow, Clerk Hart has insisted on the fee before entering de-murrers and motions, It should be stated that these fees go into the county reasury.

Judge Grahum's sult asks the court to order the clerk to place motions and de-nurrers upon record without the pay-nent of fees.

order the clerk to place motions and dement of fees.

Judge Graham was seen yesterday by a Beydeltak reporter in regard to the case. He stated that in his opinion the clerk has the right to collect the fue only when a case is put on the calendar for regular trial. "I do not construct the law," said Judge Grabam, "to give the clerk the right to collect fee for every demurer and motion made in the preliminaries of a suit."
He contenule that when the law says "trial or hearing," it means the regular trial of a case. The Judge makes the test case of the suit of Mrs. Sarah Soulke sgainst H. G. DeWitt.

County Ole: k Hart was also eeen, and stated that as far as he is personally concerned he would like to see Judge Graham's questions sustained, it would save him much annoyance from attorneys who object to paying the fees.
But the clerk has to follow the advice of the District Attorney, who holds that the fee must be paid for every demurrer and motion.

The clerk had the District Attorney's opinion within very easy result, and he showed such familiarily in grabbing for It when the reporter called that It was evident he had performed the operation many times before. He had evidently lead it as a weapon of defense egainst determined attorneys.

The disputation to the words, "trial or hearing," as they occur in the law, dudge Grainam contends that this means the regular trial of a case. But the district attorney points out that the surpreme court has wided in number of times on the definition of the word trial," and it has held that "whenever a court hears and determines the rights of the parties it may be considered a trial."

of the parties it may be considered a trial."

In domurrors and motions "the righte of the parties are beard," says the district attorney in his opinion on file and, therefore, the hearing of them by a court constitutes a "trial." Therefore, when demurrers and motions are entered of record for "trial." Its match that part of the following the county clerk in accordance with that part of the following that the interest of the office.

Judge Graham's sult will be heard by Indee Carter on Monday next.

The case will be watched as a match of attack interest. Most of the counties have taken the sums course as any ised by District Attorney Snow. In a cult which is in any way complicated and in which numerous demurrers and motions are made, as is often the case, the fee of $2 for each amounts to a considerable num before the case is inialized. Judge Graham has taken the step which many attorneys have wished taken since the enforcement of the new law.

years. His home is at present in San Bernardino.

Yesterday afternoon, through Attorney George L. Hood, James brought habeas corpus proceedings in Judge Oatter's court. The telegram on which he had been arrested read as follows:

"To Constable:—Arrest Sam James on train 20; ago 55 or 60; gat on at Mojave; warrant lessend. O. A. Lee."

The telegram was defective as a document on which to arrest in that it did not state the offense charged, as required by law. Furthermoro, it was not eigned officially. Bistrict Atternay Snow agreed that the telegram was defective as a warrant, and Judge Oarter released James from custody.

James states that he is unable to tell why the warrant for his arrest was included the telegram. HEAVY SNOWS IN MANY SECTIONS OF THE STATE. Almouds and Apricots Injured in

Napa Valley-Warmer

Today.

San Francisco, March 3 .- The cold weather still continues. During the day there have been alternate showers of rain and hail, but no more snow. The minimum temperature in San Francisco was 33 degrees and the maximum 47. In the Sacramento valley the heaviest snow on record fell today. Reports to the Associated Press from Cilroy, Pacitic Grove and Santa Cruz, state that snow has fallen. On low ground the snow melted in a short time, but it still remains on the bills and mountains. At Cazadero the snow has fallen to a depth of ten inches and is still on the ground. The weather bureau predicts slightly warmer weather for northern California with showers in the southeastern portion. Heavy rains have fallen in coutions California and more is predicted. Some fruit has been damaged by the cold in northern California, but not to any great extent so far as reported. Napa reports that almonds are almost utterly ruined and appricals are injured by the cold. has fallen. On low ground the ency

MODESTO, March 3.—The past few days have been the coldest in this country for years. Snow has fallen occasionally and last night covered the ground. The Coset Range and the Sierra Novada mountains show a heavy fall of snow almost to the plains. If the wenther clears before a warm rain melts the snow much damage will be sustained by fruit trees which budded during the warm weather last week. The rainfall for the storm so far has been 52 hundred the of an inch. The total for the saseon is 8.44 with falling barometer.

A MEAN ADVANTAGE.

The Idea of Colored Maps Was Stolen Fron "I don't know that that is a true story," said the woman in gray, "but it was told to me as such. It happened a great many years ago when the ways and means of acquiring useful knowledge were not so easy as they are teday, and means of acquiring useful knowledge were not so easy as they are teday and means of acquiring useful knowledge were not so easy as they are teday were all one color, the different countries being simply defined by their boundary lines. change this. She digested her idea for some days and then worked it out in what she fell sure was a successful manner. Then, armed with her bundle of sample work, she made her way to what was then the largest schoolbook publishing firm in the country.

"She succeeded in getting an interview with one of the firm's representatives. Thus far and no farther, however, was she destined to go. 'We never buy work from outsiders,' said the representative promptly, 'and of course we couldn't think of making an exception in your case. I'm yery serry. No doubt you have some elever ideas there, but it wouldn't be the lenst worth white to show them to me, for they wouldn't be

It wouldn't be the lenst worth white to alrow them to me, for they wouldn't be of the slightest use to us. Good dag, 'And the young girl found berself once more in the cold, black world, with what she was sure was an excellent idea still tusseld. "What became of her history fulls to tell us. With her idea it was different. It so happened that when the young weban had starled to undo her bundle the representative had caught sight of the solored maps within. Brief as the glance was he had recognized the value of the idea, as he had also recognized that it was one that might be appropriated by any one that might be appropriated by any read of the firm and stated the case. The had it carefully patented and proceeded to sow colored maps broadcast through out the educational world. Of course the simply minted money from the scheme and formany years did it continue to be t source of income. Pretty good, wasn' it, for an idea that 'couldn't possibly be of any use to them?' #### AN ODD COUPLE.

Usually every community has a few ndividuals that can be called originals and by their originality attain a classic all fame, and among several such char-unters I remember old Fin Maord and the provincial letter currier, Johannes the provincial letter currier, Johannes Lanksson.

Fin Maord had her little history and her proud recollections in spite of her humble station in lite. Ever since sha was a child, and long after she had attained the gracefulness in figure of a barrel, she had been in the service of the barons of Svanaholm; and when the old paren departed this life, like all other barons, and his son, the young honorable, succeeded his father, feeding his astholic mind suffer from daily beholding old Fia's corpulones, Pia was pensioned off and given a little cottage on the estate and enough pasture ground to support in comfort the female of the bull—in other words, a cow of the regulation pattern and size. Oli Fia had it most confortable in her old sign. Not a parly, welding, christeining or fanoral took place for miles around not that old Fia must be there and gook, and as Fla was not by any means bushful, her larder was constantly pro-vided with the choicest of eatables andrinkables.
Old Fia was certainly not a beauty rided with the cablest of catables and riminables. Old Fia was certainly not a beauty. Old Fia was certainly not a beauty. She sported a pair of mustaches that were the envy of the young men in the village. Her form partock more of their resemblance of a Dutch choose than a sylph, and to behold Fia sailing down the village street, like a galley under full sail, was a sight for the goods. Of course Fia was not to blame for her appearance—that was accepted as a frent of the Creator—but Fia was of such extremely moral temperament that as, soon as she discovered that any young man and woman in her neighborhood were spooning, or an engagement reported, Fia dish for best to break or hinder it, claiming it was all frivolity and the work of the evil one. Of course Fin claimed to be prompted only by the best intentious, but this little streak of victuo in old Fia was not appreciated by the young people, and Fia was considered a good, lawful subject for all the pranks that the depured minds of the young village people were capable of, and young people's minds in our modern times are very clastic.

Imagine, then, the glorious rumor that syread that old Fia herself had been made subject for the lance of the evil one and that the object of her tender, maidenly love was the old letter catrier, holannes. And to think of the consequences of letting love loss in such a lighody are Fin's! The result might well be considered serious, and the villagers were on the tipton of expectation.

Old Johannes had, early in life, been a steward on a big estate and associated with city people, and oven met foreigners, and nequired a high toned language and manure which, all combined, had conquered vid Fia's mainten reserve. One day Johannes had, earled at Fix's cotting to deliver a letter, and as this

One day Johannes had called at Fla's cottage to deliver a letter, and as this was something so extraordinary, an even was something acceptantament, an event in Fig.'s 16o, Johannes must perforce remain and read the communication. It turned out to be a notification that Fila had inherited the respectable sum of 1,000 rix dullars from a member of the noble family of Syanabelm, and Fila had, therefore, the attraction of an hor-ress for Johannes.

ess for Johannes.

Fia, on her part, considered Johanne, as a great man. Was not his language like what she somethmes had beard a as a greate man. Was not his language as a greate man. Was not his language like what she sometimes had heard at Syanahodm? And did he not represent his amigesty the king's pastofile department? The best of overything from Fin's larder was placed before Johannes, and he was feasted like a king. The satisfaction was mutual, for as Johannes said one day. "Manuselle Fia, it is so pleasurable to visit here, when one has assurable to visit here, when one has assurable to with odificated persons, and again converse with an equivoke and cynic feanule."

Old Fia just sat there, the picture of astonishment in the big words, of when she did not understand the meaning, but it charmed the old girl, and Johannes learning was rewarded with pancalks and frequent glasses of something Fia claimed kept rheumatism out of the bones.

nnes would have been made of his heart or his stomach. Whether Fin or Johannes first made the proposessivist the village paster and request that the banns be published between them visit the village jester and request that the learns be published between them will forever remain a mystory. (In Sweden it is the custom for the pusher for read the names from the pulpit after service on Sunday of those that intend to marry, and this is done for three Sundays in succession.)

Both Fia and Johannes knew that if their intention became knewn that the villagers they would be exposed to much unpleasantness from the young people, and they decided on a plan that they hought was very clover. This was for Johannes and Fia to start, dressed in their ordinary everyday dress, by separate many the means of the conditions of the c rate ronles and then to meet at the edge of the forest, where they could put on their Sunday costume, which they would bring with them tied up in a bundle.

The two benighted old souls had many a good laugh at the clever way in which they would fool their tormentors.

The day finally arrived, and early in the morning Johannes started out, earrying with him his Sunday dress; tied up in a boundle. Unfortmately he was compolled to pass through the village street, and here he was accessed with the inquiry by one of the young follows. of the village "where the of the village "where the postmaster was going to so early in the morning" "Oh," ruplied Johnnus—and he tried to look dignified—"just pregrinating terra firm." Johnnuses expected the highwords would setting his terra firma." Johannes expected the hig words would astonish his termentor, but the boy stuck to him and succeeded in discovering that Johannes' Sunday cont was in the bandle. The villagers were at one informed of the fact, and Johannes was followed at a distance by one of the hops. Soon Fia was seen wadding through the village street, also carrying a hundle, and the villagers were now sure that something was about to happen. Fia was followed, and was seen to enter the forest. Here she met Johannes, and both were hust kiding off their everyday dress when, with a horvible yell, the outin population of the village was seen appreaching. "Look out for the wolven!" they cried. "They are biting overylody." Fin and Johannes did not stand on coremony. In his fanned underwear, leaving his Sunday dress behind, Johannes sprinted for the village church, followed by Fia in her red netticat, with the villagers running bothind them, yelling "Wolff" The minister was bankising Abolid Kriattina's child, when the door to the sarvisty was barst open and Fia, breathing like a whale from her cortion, rell-din, followed by Johannes largended words would astonish his torner ing like a whale from her exertion, rolled in, followed by Johannes, bareheaded and in his flannels. The minister and the bantizing party almost seared out of their wits, friends! My friends! Have you es-

she could command after her rapid tunshe could command

Our to come nere and request the worthy pastur to read the banns over me and Johannes next Sunday. But the villagers say the wolves were after them, and I have lost my Sunday dress, and Johannes band here Fis had de slop for lack of breath, and Johannes tried to crawl under a table to hido bitusait. The minister was not slow to son the joke and understand the situation. Received the form according to the past was the property of the meaning the bit indirection.

Joka and understand the situation. Repressing as far as possible his inclination to longh, he requested Pia and Johannes to approach his table, and addressed them on the sanctity of matrimony. When the paster went, have to his dinner, he and his sexton had a good laugh at probably the oddest pair of lovers over to appear before a utilister.

And as for the village people, they yolkal and cried and hurrahed until Johannes, as he after confided to Pia over a turbler of something rofusching, "had never in his life been so extemporameously freadrated," and that he expected overy minute "to bestricken with obfuscation."—From the Swedish.
